LIONS BUSSY AND MOORE DOMINATE PATRIOTS TO WIN SUPER BOWL XII 42-17!

Detroit's Dexter Bussy (#24) ran all over New England as Bussy ran for 222 yards on the day to beat the Patriots 42-17!!!

December 4, 2016 Rose Bowl Pasadena CA …Going into this Super Bowl XII the Long Island Electric Football League's #24-Ranked AFC Champion New England Patriots (8-1) (62-76 All-Time), took on the #16-Ranked NFC Champion Detroit Lions (7-2) (66-72-All-Time) in a game which New England's backs were against the wall the entire game.

Detroit and New England on paper were evenly matched. The prediction was 29-28, but the Lions absolutely without a shadow of a doubt man handled the Patriot front line. The Patriots dominated the AFC this season and proved to be the best match for Detroit, but it was a show that Detroit played that will be played over and over for the Patriots until next season as they were tormented by Detroit's Dexter Bussy, who was the #2 All-Purpose player in the LIEFL this season with 72-1156 yards 5 touchdowns. Bussy was the #1 offensive player in the NFC for a reason. He was sensational! New England's Laurence Maroney was no slouch this season. He finished as the #2 All-Purpose player in the AFC and #7 overall in the LIEFL. Two powerhouse players meeting front and center!

In bright new uniforms for the game as will be the tradition for both Super Bowl teams in the league, the Detroit Lions played like beasts this season winning the division title over LIEFL #7-Ranked Minnesota Vikings (5-2) (82-73 All-Time), in a tight race. Detroit had the #6 defense in the NFC, a defense we haven't seen since their inception into the LIEFL in 1978. The Lions lost 30 games in three seasons in the 1970's in this league. They were in the dungeon and rose from worst to first as a blue-color Motor City team.

The 2016 Draft helped Detroit tremendously with that front line of Glover, All-Pro Dunn, and All-Pro Starting Guard, Bubba Baker. In the NFC Divisional Game, the Lions slammed their opponents with a boom beating the LIEFL #19-Ranked Tampa Bay Buccaneers (5-2) (66-86), 28-24. The NFC Championship Game was a payback thriller for the Lions as they upset the LIEFL #9-Ranked New York Giants (7-2) (81-70), 31-24, to advance to Long Island Electric Football Super Bowl XII! This was a team primed for this Super Bowl after suffering a crushing loss to the New York in 2008, 45-35, in the NFC Championship Game.

The Lions were ahead 14-10 at the half but managed to score 28 more points in the third and fourth quarters powered by the big wide receiver, superstar Herman Moore.

Herman Moore's memorable last play of the game was a 33-yard TD catch. Moore had three touchdowns and 127 yards, earning him MVP with Dexter Bussy.

Legendary Detroit Lions All-Pro Back Dexter Bussy exploded for runs of 58, 23, and 24-yard touchdowns led by Baker who plowed the way for Bussy's record setting 222 rushing yards and three touchdowns on the day. NFC Championship Game MVP Herman Moore shared Super Bowl XII MVP honors with Bussy as his three touchdowns of 53,41, and a 33-yard catch on the last play of the game as time ran out sunk New England's worn out defense.

New England Patriots running back Laurence Maroney had 104 yards rushing and 379 yards kick-returns, one of them for a 100-yard touchdown sprint! In the end Maroney totaled 16-483-2 TDS in all-purpose yards. Overall, the Patriots were a complete mismatch for Detroit as the Lions dominated and dismantled the Patriots 42-17, to earn their first Super Bowl XII!

SUPER BOWL

This was the story all day—Lions defense! It was the Lion defense that haunted New England's Maroney holding him to 104 yards rushing on the day.

Each team in the league has peeked to perform on any given Sunday these teams compete and that is how we are building this league, for each team to show up and perform at their best. The Lions are the Cinderella team that surprised everyone.

SUPER BOWL XII MVP: Dexter Bussy (24) and Herman Moore (84)